These scholarships are announced regularly, in Autumn each year, in a unilateral offer open to all countries, and can be sought directly by those interested on-line at "www.becasmae.es" This annual announcement of MAEC-AECI Scholarships normally takes place in the last trimester of each year for Summer studies and for those during the immediately following academic year.

At the end of the application period, through the Embassy of the Kingdom of Spain in New Delhi, the Spanish Party will invite the Indian authorities to participate in the pre-selection of Indian applicants, to which ends they will be provided through those channels with the user name and code to access the computer application for the announcement, and the related Internet address.

The aid takes the form of a lump sum payment of 6,000 € for project costs (travel, materials, etc.), according to the applicant's criteria. Priority is given to projects in the field of international relations, economics, culture, development cooperation and the media, to enhance mutual understanding and relations between Spain and the Asia-Pacific region.

The Antoni de Montserrat Programme seeks to foment visits by personalities of acknowledged standing from Asia and the Pacific, to participate in encounters, courses, seminars, trade fairs and cultural festivals organized by public and private institutions or entities in Spain. In this programme, 12 grants are offered, of 6,000 € each, for travel, and must be duly evidenced in terms of cover for the cost of travel and/or stay in this country. The Indian Party offers five scholarships for each academic session through the Indian Council for Cultural Relations for Spanish scholars to pursue courses and research in India.

II.10. Lectureships

I.10.1. MAEC-AECI Spanish Lectureships in India

The MAEC-AECI Programme of Lectureships in Spanish language and culture are part of Spanish Cooperation's policy of international academic cooperation, and is regulated with the signing of a Memorandum of Understanding intended to contribute to the academic-institutional development and consolidation of Spanish studies, facilitating their medium or long-term self-sustainability. The Memorandum remains in place for an initial minimum of three years and a maximum of nine, although the AECI may, through the Embassy or University, at any time give written notice of the cancellation of the commitments given.

The Spanish Party restates to the Indian Party its willingness to contribute to the development of Spanish Departments in Indian Universities and higher education centres on the basis of that policy, in "Memorandums of Understanding" arranged between the beneficiary Universities and the Spanish International Cooperation Agency, and signed by the Ambassador of Spain in New Delhi and the Vice-Chancellor of the Indian University concerned.

In terms of this policy, the Spanish Party hereby undertakes, following a request from interested Indian Universities, to support the creation of new lectureships in the same terms as indicated in the Memorandums of Understanding between the Embassy of the Kingdom of Spain and the Universities. Once the establishment of such lectureships has been agreed on, the AECI will notify the University Grants Commission (UGC) through the Embassy of the Kingdom of Spain of the Universities selected, with the advance notice indicated by that Institution, so that the Commission has sufficient time to arrange all aspects related to the contract and the accommodation for the new lecturer, and the granting of the related legal residence permit.

III.1.3 The Instituto Cervantes Network of Associate Centres

The Spanish Party informs that the Instituto Cervantes has an accreditation system, created to favour quality teaching of Spanish in education centres which include Spanish as a foreign language among their activities, whether alone, as a priority or as a complement.

In accordance with the bases of that system, the Instituto Cervantes may grant a teaching centre status as "Associate Centre of the Cervantes Institute" and, among other things, provide methodological advice to Indian teaching centres so classified. The Spanish Party hereby asks the Indian Party to make known the existence of this system of accreditation, so that universities, institutions and teaching centres may avail themselves of it.

III.2 Casa Asia (Asia House)

Casa Asia is a public Consortium, the upshot of a convention between the Spanish Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Regional Government of Catalonia and Barcelona City Corporation.

The main aim of Casa Asia is to implement actions and projects which contribute to better understanding between Asian, Pacific and Spanish societies, to foment relations in the economic, institutional, cultural and academic fields. The "Leitmotiv" underlying the creation of Casa Asia is to inform and train, to transform relations with Asia and the Pacific.

III.2.1 Casa Asia Virtual (Virtual Asia House): the Asian and Pacific window through the Internet

The Casa Asia Virtual project, www.casaasia.es, arose in consonance with these aims and, in just a few months, has become the Spanish reference for Asian-Pacific content.
