cordially invites you to a talk

A Grandmother's Legacy: A Memoir of Five Generations

by author

Jenny Mallin

Restaurateur and columnist

Rakhi Purnima Dasgupta

has kindly agreed to chair the session and facilitate the interactive session with the author

Monday, 14 December 2015, 5.30 pm

Victoria Memorial Hall (Portrait Gallery)

1 Queen's Way,
Kolkata 700 071

The talk will centre around Jenny Mallin's forthcoming book on the subject, which is more than a memoir or cookbook and provides a fascinating glimpse into five generations Anglo-Indians during the British Raj in India – their lifestyle, the way they entertained, the kind of food they ate and how they directly benefited from the new infrastructures in India (railway, road network, canals and sanitation), with fascinating anecdotes.

Please note that cars are not allowed inside the Victoria Memorial premises.
Golf-cart shuttle service available for elderly persons from the North Gate.

A Grandmother's Legacy

A Memoir of Five Generations who lived through the Days of the Raj

Jenny Mallin is an Anglo-Indian author presently living in the United Kingdom. She has had an interesting career at the BBC in London. Her forthcoming book A Grandmother's Legacy: A Memoir of Five Generations who lived through the Days of the Raj is based on her own Anglo-Indian family of five generations where the grandmothers upheld the tradition of writing down all their recipes into a big ledger book which was then handed down through generations.
